About Diann

Diann Shaddox is a Native American and a member of the Wyandotte Nation and she has Essential Tremors. She's an award-winning author of A Faded Cottage, a SC love story about an artist with Essential Tremors; Whispering Fog, a time travel romance; Miranda, a historical fiction, a journal of a young girl living in the late 1800's; and Spirits of Sacred Mountain, a middle grade, a young boy discovers a magical world hidden deep in a mountain.

Diann is the Founder of the Diann Shaddox Foundation for Essential Tremor, a Non-Profit 501c(3) public organization fighting the battle to find a cure and bring awareness for Essential Tremor.

In 2007, I began to write my novels, but December 18, 2010 changed my life when I wrote A Faded Cottage a SC love story about an artist who develops Essential Tremor. From that day on, I became an activist using A Faded Cottage to bring awareness and find a cure for Essential Tremor. I am adamant to make a change in the way the world perceives Essential Tremor so I started the Diann Shaddox Foundation for Essential Tremor.

Essential Tremor is a neurological condition that causes a rhythmic trembling of the hands, head, voice, legs, or trunk. Over 10 million Americans have ET. Essential Tremor doesn't discriminate with age, race, sex, or national origin and children develop ET.

Millions of children/babies and adults live each day with uncontrollable shakes from Essential Tremor, the largest movement disorder in the world. Awareness and education will stop the bullying, people losing their jobs, college students having their dreams disappear and end depression for people worldwide who are living with hand, voice, head, and body tremors.

I have many novels ready to publish and many stories to tell, and will continue to raise awareness to Essential Tremor to make a difference in over 10 million American and millions of people's lives worldwide who live with Essential Tremor.

I learned from an early age things may look impossible, maybe risky or pointless, but you have to give it a try or you'll never know if you don't give yourself a chance.
